The leading role, that of Canada, will be portrayed by a charming little Scotch lassie who has traveled from the wind-swept prairies of far off Manitoba all alone to meet the man of her choice. The plucky little lady's name is Miss Laura MacDonald, niece of Sir John MacDonald, late premier of the Dominion of Canada, and daughter of one of the promoters of the Canadian Pacific railroad. The character of Uncle Sam will be portrayed with telling emphasis by that pioneer prospector, Colonel R. A. Hawkins, who will look the part in his characteristic costume with which he is wont to interest the wandering tender oot in the Knutsford rotunda while enjoying his The commence Knutsford rotunda while enjoying his after dinnner cigar and stroking his held at assembly hall this morning at

When seen last night and interrogated in regard to the pretty little romance, the gallant colonel was clothed his customary neglige costum which embraced a pair of heavy buff top boots usually associated with the miring fraternity, a huge white hat with a generous brim, and a broad smile of exceeding dimensions and tenderness. The balance of his dress was after the approved style of Beaver ounty, where he has buried himself for the last three years, to issue from the crags and canyons like an eagle renewed of his youth.

But say, I don't arrival of the hook and ladder truck, it arrival of the hook and ladder truck, it is now ready to be out in operation for some want anything said about this, as we want it to be a little quiet affair."

In response to further queries, the colonel stated that his prospective bride was "the most accomplished little lady that has ever braved the wild and wooly west, and not yet 25, my boy." When asked as to how he became acquainted with Miss MacDonald, he said: "Why, bless you my boy, I have known her for twenty years past, when I first met her at Sir John MacDonald's residence in Canada."

In response to a leading question on the subject of his own age, the colonel shied violently and refused to divulge, but proceeded to relate some of his pachelor experiences in the fastnesses adjacent to the Frisco mining district, where he said that the American eagle soars over his prospects and salutes the stars and stripes that float 8,000 feet above the level of the habitat of old

MORE BEER.—The industry of making beer is on the increase in Salt Lake, according to the figures of the internal revenue office. The receipts from the sale of beer stamps have been over $2,000 greater this month than they were in May of last year. As the tux on beer is now $2 per barrel, this increase in tax represents an increase of 1,000 barrels in the output of beer.

PLAYED CROQUET .- The Gypsy Cro quet club, which was organized a week or two ago, met with Mrs. A. T. Moon yesterday afternoon for their first game of the favorite summer pastime. About gathered on the spacious lawn and spent the hours from 3 to 8 in lively contests with the mallets and balls. At the close of the games a delightful lunch was served on the lawn.

SCHOOLS TO CLOSE .- Today o clock the closing exercises of the Emerson school will occur. The Fremont exercises will take place at 2 o'clock, the Jackson exercises at 2 o'clock, the Lowell at 1:30 and the Webster at 2 o'clock. On Friday the exercises at the Washington, Sumner, Bryant, Oquirrh and Grant will take place at '10 o'clock, while the pro-grammes at the Wasatch, Hamilton and Franklin will be rendered at 2 o'clock.

WINS CANADIAN BRIDE ENTERTAINED BY STUDENTS THROWN FROM A HORSE AN IDEA.

Little Freddie Miller is Terribly Injured.

School Will be Held at Assembly HIS SKULL FRACTURED

FEARED HE HAS SUSTAINED IN-TERNAL INJURIES.

Recovery is Doubtful-Accident Occurred at Farmington Yesterday and the Little Fellow is still Unplay of Courage.

Freddie the 14-year-old son of Dr. C. F. Wilcox, is lying in a critical condi-tion at his father's home, his skull being fractured as the result of an accident at Farmington yesterday fore-noon. The boy was thrown from a horse, but he gave a most marvelous exhibition of perve before he had to give in to the frightened and rearing animal. His courage and skill excited the wonder and admiration, and subsequently, the deepest sympathy, of the rowd of several hundred people who Two weeks ago the little fellow disloated his collar bone through a fall while on an outing in City Creek can-yon, and since that time he has carried his arm in a sling. He was still unable to use when, yesterday, he took his uncle's a se out of the barn at Farmington, where he had been visiting for a couple of days, and rode out to see the finish of the road race. A half hour after the race was over, and before the crowd of bicyclists and spectators had fully dispersed, there was great excitement, and the horse Freddie as riding became fractious. With one arm useless, the boy could not control the animal, and was soon unseated. As he fell his foot caught in the stirrup, and he struck the ground with his injured arm. But instead of crying out in pain, young Wilcox began to struggle for the mastery over his horse, and while no one knows now how he did it, in a few moments he had pulled himself up into the saddle again aid, but could not get near enough to catch the horse by the bridle. The mustang was bucking furiously and the lad was thrown, alighting on his head and shoulders.

He was picked up unconscious, bleeding at the mouth and ears, and, the ob-servation train being about to return, his apparently lifeless body was brought to town in the baggage car. Dr. Wilcox, almost overcome with nxiety, having heard of the accident was at the train, and had his son taken home at once. An examination showed that the base of the skull had been fractured, and there are probably internal injuries.

Late yesterday evening Dr. Wilcox noticed a slight change for the better in the boy's condition, but he was still unconscious, and only a ray of hope was entertained for his recovery.
